

Fen's Big Thank You

A Digraph TH Decodable Book • Level 2 • Kindergarten–1st Grade

Printable Scholar Readers

Fen had a den in the sand by the pond. One day, a big, thick log fell on the path to her den. Fen could not get home. Thad ran up. He chomped the log in two and pushed it off the path.

Then he fixed the path with mud. Fen did want to thank him. But she did not say a thing. She just hid in her den. Fen sat in her den to think.

"I can not say it, but I can write it," she said. She got a thin stick and went down the path to Thad's dam. With the stick, she dug in the wet sand to write
THANK YOU.

Then she hid in the grass. Later, Thad swam up to his dam. He saw THANK YOU in the sand. "Who did this?" said Thad. Then he spotted Fen's tracks, and he grinned. "Any time, Fen!" he said. Fen grinned back.
