It was spring. Rob had a snug nest in a shrub. Then a strong gust struck the nest. It split!

"Oh no! My nest!" said Rob.

Rob had to mend it. He set a stick on top. It fell. He set a sprig on top. That fell too.

Sam ran up. "I can help you," said Sam. "Let us hunt for scraps."

Sam got a long string. Rob got a strip of red cloth and a bit of fluff.

Rob stretched the string. He and Sam strapped the nest to the shrub. Rob tucked in the cloth and the fluff.

Then a gust hit the shrub again. The nest did not split. It was strong and snug.

"Thank you, Sam!" said Rob.
